Handlogten Taking New Post in Texas

The resignation of Clarence Handlogten as executive vice president of Hope College effective July 31 was announced today by Board of Trustees Chairman Hugh De Pree.

Handlogten, a member of the Hope administrative staff since 1966, has accepted an offer to be associated with Howard Sluyter of Dallas, Tex., in the development of new business enterprises in the field of ecological products.

He will continue in a consulting capacity beyond July 31 as requested by the Board of Trustees and President-Elect Dr. Gordon J. Van Wye.

Hope College has received national recognition for its financial management during Handlogten's term of service. Since 1966, virtually every segment of the college's operation has been significantly expanded and improved including the size of the student body, employee benefits and salaries, the physical plant, budgeting and forecasting procedures, personnel policies and overall administrative leadership.

Handlogten, a resident of Grand Rapids, joined the Hope staff as business manager. He was appointed treasurer in 1968 and assumed the position of ex-

Clarence Handlogten

Studies have started, according to DePree, to determine the organizational characteristics that the College should establish and to outline responsibilities so that any desirable personnel changes can be made. It is hoped that in the next two months plans can be completed and necessary steps for implementation can be undertaken.

'Silent Plan' Considered For Ottawa

GRAND HAVEN — Ottawa county may adopt the "silent observer" plan to cut down crime in the county, it was reported Monday at a meeting of the Board of Commissioners.

Donald Williams, Holland, reported the judicial committee has investigated the program pioneered in the city of Battle Creek and recommended that the plan be referred to Sheriff Bernard Grysen and the sheriff's committee of the board.

Williams, chairman of the judicial committee, said Battle Creek program, operated through the Chamber of Commerce, has resulted in 24 convictions. Anonymous informers turn over clues to the police officials and $2,450 in awards have been made to those persons who have informed police.

The recreation committee recommended that the sheriff's department be permitted to use county-owned land in Port Sheldon township for a pistol target range. This plan was also referred to the sheriff's committee. Supervisor Sam Carlin of Port Sheldon asked that the township be permitted to convert 450 acres of county-owned land into a recreation area for bridge trails and other sports. This request was referred to the recreation committee.

At the morning meeting, the board voted to maintain its 15 per cent interest in the Wyoming City municipal water system, which includes a pipeline from Lake Michigan east to the Kent county city. Revenue bonds will be sold by the water and sanitation division of the road commission to finance the county's share of the expansion program of the Wyoming system.

A request by Clarence Reenders, former Grand Haven township supervisor, that the county grant permission to his township to use a 33-foot strip of land for access trails between Hofma park, a township park, and the former township dump property. The township wishes to join the two areas for snowmobile use and other recreation activity, Reenders said. The request was referred to the recreation committee.

William Winstrom, chairman of the buildings and grounds committee, reported the Holland Garden Club has offered to pay $2,000 for landscaping of the new police building and court building at Holland. He said plans for dedication of the two buildings have been discussed. Completion date has been set for Sept. 15.

Winstrom, who is also chairman of the Black River Basin Advisory council, reported the Michigan Department of Natural Resources is planning to construct a septic system at Holland state park next fall and by 1973 sewage now entering the nearby channel will be eliminated.

The board voted to support house bill 4902 in the state legislature which would change the program of taxation on mobile homes in Michigan.

Reports On Study Of Balance And Distant Sight

Dr. F. Phillip Van Eyl, associate professor of psychology at Hope College, will have an article published in the June issue of the Journal of Experimental Psychology on the topic "Induced vestibular stimulation and the moon illusion."

The article reports an experiment that tried to determine whether the vestibular sense, or the sense of balance, contributes to the fact that the moon near the horizon looks so much bigger than the moon in zenith. It is generally believed that this illusion is mostly due to psychological contrast: when the moon is high it is difficult to compare with anything else; when the moon is near the horizon we compare it with known distances and the sizes of known objects.

In his research he managed to isolate vestibular stimulation from other possible physiological stimulation by using an especially constructed parallel swing with 12-foot cables.

The significance of Dr. Van Eyl's basic research and that of other scientists is that it increases our knowledge about the way and how well we see size and distance. This information is of practical value to pilots and astronauts.

The Church Proclaims
the Gospel

Luke 4:16-21; Romans 10:14-18
By C. P. Dame

The topic raises questions. Some ask what the church is, others what is meant by the word "proclaims" and some want to know the meaning of the word gospel. The lesson hour in the Sunday School should be interesting.

I. Jesus preached. Nazareth is a famous place because Jesus lived there. He had been away from Nazareth, preaching and teaching, and on the first sabbath He returned. He "went into the synagogue" according to His custom.

The synagogue was important in the religious life of the Jews. It originated in the days of the Babylonian captivity and was used for worship which consisted of prayers and reading, first from the Law, namely the first five books of Moses, and then from the Prophets, which was followed by comments. The attendant handed Jesus the book of Isaiah, from which Jesus read the lesson appointed for the day, Isaiah 61:1-3.

II. Jesus made a great claim for Himself for He said that Isaiah's words were fulfilled in Him. Jesus asserted that the Spirit of the Lord was upon Him and commissioned Him to preach "good news to the poor... to proclaim release to the captives, and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty those who are oppressed, to proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord."

After reading, Jesus "closed the book and gave it back to the attendant and sat down," which was the custom of the rabbis. He then made the claim: "Today this scripture has been fulfilled in your ears." Jesus said He had been appointed to preach the gospel to needy people. Today some people adore Jesus but dislike the church and fail to worship regularly in a church. Their inconsistency is evident. The best way to honor Jesus is to follow His example.

III. Preaching is a priority in the Bible. In the text from Romans, Paul says the preaching of the gospel is important for salvation. Preachers are needed to proclaim the gospel so that people may hear it and believe. Note that Paul asks four questions and the last one is, "And how shall they preach, except they be sent," and the answer is that they cannot preach unless they are sent.

In the days of Isaiah "not all obeyed the gospel" and the same is true today. The preaching must continue because it is highly essential for faith comes from hearing the gospel which even in Paul's day had been carried to all parts of the world.

Preaching is not limited to the pulpit or to the preacher. Every Christian is called upon to be a minister and to witness, teach and share when an opportunity comes. If the church does not preach the gospel it simply will not be preached. The opportunities are many.

A PRETTY GOOD DEAL

The Federal Highway Administration has put out a report telling the American car-owner how much it costs him to buy and maintain an automobile. The figure looks staggering at first glance, but upon reflection is fairly comforting.

The figures are these: it costs five cents less than $13,553 to buy and run a car for ten years. Assuming that at the end of that time the car is worthless, the initial investment plus upkeep plus gasoline plus insurance plus taxes, plus parking fees comes to the figure mentioned. That seems rather exorbitant. But if one figures this out to cost per mile it averages out to between 13 and 14 cents. That, we think, is not so bad.

Consider the convenience and comfort. There is your conveyance ready for you at any hour of the day or night. When it's cold you can turn on the heater; when it's hot you can enjoy the air-conditioner if your car is equipped with one. It's easy to drive, with automatic transmission, power steering, power brakes. It takes you from your door to the door you want to get to with no questions asked. It's a much more royal convenience than most royal enjoyed a hundred years ago.

At 14 cents per mile, we think this is a pretty good deal. And maybe it should tell us also that this country isn't after all, such a bad place to live.

Dr. Van Wylen Speaks to Men

Making his first address in Holland as Hope College president-elect, Dr. Gordon Van Wylen noted three dimensions of current Christian perspectives on contemporary culture Thursday night at a Men's Brotherhood meeting in Trinity Reformed Church.

He spoke of young people today having a great sense of idealism and concern for evil; of the emphasis of experience and the rejection of material things and truth and the search for the ultimate meaning and purpose of life.

Using illustrations from his life as dean of the College of Engineering at the University of Michigan, he pointed to the Van Wylen thought the Christian response was to ask "how are we going to respond?" Then find a starting point, look within and be transformed by the power of Christ and "develop a solution where we are."

In the second dimension, the speaker said persons are looking for a valid kind of experience and the Christian must balance the truth with experience.

As for finding a purpose of life, Dr. Van Wylen saw the opportunity for Christians to respond "with a clear, reasonable presentation of the Christian gospel."

Noting the reported "strong Christian emphasis in Holland,"

Dr. Van Wylen said young people ask "does the whole thing work?" He felt the answer is the response of the Christian faith, commitment to Christ and pointing out the impact of Christian commitments.

Answering questions, the president-elect said he would guard against an undue emphasis of science at Hope; felt compulsory religious observance such as chapel was a thing of the past and thought now a valid experience for students and the Christian gospel activities of Michigan students relating to the three dimensions.

In answer to the first, Dr. Van Wylen thought the Christian character of a college and indicated a "freedom of responsibility" is needed in dealing with student housing.

Willard C. Wichers, Hope board of trustees secretary, introduced Dr. Van Wylen. Brotherhood president William H. Vande Water presided while the Rev. Craig Seitz of Trinity Church was question moderator.

Terry Hofmeyer gave the invocation and Paul Baker the closing prayer. Clare Luth, accompanied by Mrs. Luth, sang. Men from Christ Memorial, Maplewood Reformed churches and other churches were guests.

Other proposals covered the role of creativity in American life as taught (or not taught) in schools, study of international economic policy, evaluation of government spending priorities and women in the universities.

Youngsters Taken Ill By Beans

ALLEGAN—Three youngsters were held over night and 60 others treated at the Allegan General Hospital after becoming ill Monday from seed beans taken to an elementary school. Authorities said the illness was attributed to insecticide and fungicide poisoning.

Parents of some 900 children in the Dawson and Pine Trails elementary schools at Allegan were notified of potential exposure to the highly treated beans taken to school by a third grade student at Pine Trails school.

Authorities said she carried the beans in a bag on a school bus that also transported students to the Dawson school.

One of the three youngsters held overnight in the hospital swallowed a bean but others were said to have only touched the beans.

Allegan deputies said the beans were found in a barn on the farm of the parents of the youngsters who took the beans to school. The beans were purchased by previous tenants of the farm from a store in Allegan who obtained them from a wholesaler in Grand Rapids.

The Grand Rapids firm supplied the hospital with information on the nature of the insecticide and fungicide with which the beans had been treated.

The first child suffering from symptoms that touched off the investigation was taken to the hospital at 5 p.m. By 11:30 p.m. most of the cases treated at the hospital had been taken care of.

High School Asks Students On Board

The Holland Board of Education has taken under study a proposal from the student council of Holland High School to have a high school student as a non-voting member of the board.

The plan was advanced by School Mayor Kevin Counihan and Paul Timmer who assured the board that the student members would like some real involvement in the work of the board and would be willing to assist in such programs as promoting millage elections.

Board President James O. Lamb said such offers would be more than welcome. There was a question whether the student member would be interested or have time to attend the many committee meetings in the course of a month, and it was the extent of this involvement that the board decided to study.

The two high school representatives made it clear that such a non-voting member, if approved, would be an elective position, one associated with the annual student council election.

Supt. Donald L. Ihrman announced the first commencement for adult education members will be held May 26 at 8 p.m. in Holland High School auditorium for 25 to 30 adults who have completed studies in equivalency of high school credits. Robert Doyle of Donnelly Mirrors will be the speaker.

The school administration was informed through Larry Hildore of the county welfare services of forestry jobs available under EEA funds of the country. It was stated work in school forests can be shared in some $80,000 in funds that remain in the country.

John Weeber of the buildings and grounds committee said the committee is studying sewer costs with a view to providing installation at Federal School before East Eighth St. is widened to four lanes.

A communication from District Judge John Gallen acknowledged the school district's cooperation in the new traffic course in adult evening school and said Jack Aussicker has qualified as an instructor through special training.

President Lamb presided at the meeting which lasted almost two hours. The invocation was given by Mrs. G. S. MacKenzie. All members were present.

Millage Vote For School Discussed

A flip board presentation on the school millage proposition confronting Holland school district voters June 12 was given by Donald Rohlick at the monthly meeting of the Board of Education Monday night in the Holland High School library.

The 8-10 minute presentation will be available to service clubs and other organizations.

The millage proposition calls for 4.65 mills for one year, a reduction of 1.1 mills from the 5.75 mills voted last year for one year.

The presentation lists taxes and state aid for the current year and the coming year, the allocated millage and the extra voted millage based on equalized valuations.

The proposed 4.65 mills plus the 10.295 allocated millage and 10 mills extra voted for a total of 24.945 mills based on equalized valuation of $145,522,353 will produce $3,630,055, compared with $3,451,543 raised the past year on 26.045 mills, but state aid the coming year will be reduced over $190,000 from the current year by state formulas.

Supt. Donald L. Ihrman also announced that Friday, May 12, at 4 p.m. is the deadline for filing petitions for members for the Board of Education. There is one vacancy this year, and Charles Bradford has filed petitions seeking a second four-year term.

Several curriculum changes were approved, subject to passage of extra millage. These involve a new senior math text book, a new print shop text book, and two additional courses in junior high for the non-college bound student in consumer education and occupational information.

Another change approved is on the elementary level on physical education in which three specialists will put more emphasis on the upper grades and provide counseling to lower elementary teachers. Also approved was a change in social studies text books for elementary grades involving some $23,000 for 3,000 students.

President James O. Lamb in speaking of school preparations for Tulip Time acknowledged the services of two teachers, Gertrude Zonnebelt and Marie Wolrding who have marched in children's Tulip Time parades 37 years, and Fannie Bultman, 30 years. All are retiring this year. And, noting the presence of Marion Shackson in the audience who retired last year, he also mentioned her years of service to the school and to Tulip Time.

A proposed student teacher policy as outlined by Supt. Ihrman was given board approval, setting guidelines on numbers of practice teachers in the Holland school system. The new policy was set up in the light of the district's prime responsibility to the education of the students, plus an attempt to be fair to both student and student teacher.

Through the years, the system has cooperated with Hope College, Calvin College, Western Michigan University and Grand Valley State College, and on occasion the University of Michigan and Michigan State University. Ihrman said at times the demands on the system have been heavy, and the new policy sets up qualifications for supervising teachers, their responsibilities and the coordinator's responsibilities.

Plans also were approved for special education programs the coming summer for impaired hearing, crippled children and speech handicapped children in Jefferson School, as outlined by James Barker. Costs were listed at $9,105 to be financed by state and county funds.

Another program for the mentally handicapped, educable and trainable, is offered by the Coopersville district in cooperation with Grand Valley State College. Holland may send students to this program.

Action was taken on phasing out in two years the special education stipend for teachers. For several years Holland had offered an additional $500 for teachers receiving training in special education. It is expected the stipend will be forthcoming for one more year.

Supt. Ihrman called attention to an art show which opened May 8 in the high school art center and runs through Tulip Time. The show will be open to the public on school days from 3 a.m. to 4 p.m. except on the afternoons of Tulip Time parades. The gallery also will be open from 7 to 9 p.m. to night and May 16.

Matt Norton Will Attend Safety Rally

Matthew Norton, 12, a sixth grade student at Lakeview School, has been named to attend a safety patrol rally in Ottawa, Ontario, Canada, May 17 through 20 as a guest of the Automobile Club of Michigan. He will represent patrolers at his school, which the Auto Club selected as the most outstanding safety patrol in Holland this year.

Matthew, the son of Dr. and Mrs. Norman Norton, 667 Concord Dr., is one of 50 safety patrolers chosen to take the all-expense-paid four-day trip to Ottawa where the 12th Annual Canadian National Safety Patrol Rally is being held. The Michigan delegation will be the first U.S. Patrol ever to attend the Ottawa Rally and will be the only U.S. group represented there this year.

Community Theatre Aims To Have Its Own Facility

Preliminary plans for renovation of the Holland Community Theater Workshop at 197 East 19th St. were discussed at a general membership meeting on Saturday evening.

Ted Jungblut, Sandy Decker and Nancy Gasper outlined problems faced by the Holland Community Theater which have led to the appointment of a committee by the board of directors to look into the possibilities of converting the present workshop into a theater facility.

Increased conflicts and costs connected with the use of the Holland High School Performing Arts Center and other local auditoriums have been the prime factors in the board's action.

The many advantages of having one building in which storage of property and supplies, constructing of scenery, rehearsing, and presenting of plays take place, were brought out.

A drawing and a model of two possible renovation ideas by Dennis Hamilton and Paul Blain were explained. After lengthy discussion, the members voted to proceed with plans to renovate the building. Recommendations and suggestions for changes may be made to the committee on renovation: Fred Geary, Dennis Hamilton, Paul Blain, Charles Armstrong, Nancy Gasper, Sandy Decker, Ted Jungblut and Willard Hopkins. Robert L. Fritch, of the Port City Playhouse in Muskegon, is serving as CTAM Board consultant.

The year's top ticket salesmen were dinner guests of the group. Special recognition was given to Barbara Greenwood as top salesperson of the year, followed by Bonnie Tregloan, Sandy Decker, Mr. and Mrs. William Sturgeon, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Jungblut, Sandy Hemple, Nancy Gasper, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Vande Water and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Burkholder.

Pre-dinner Shaker parties were given by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Geary and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Armstrong.

AAA canceled its annual patrol rally and parade following civil unrest there. This is the first Automobile Club of Michigan-sponsored trip for patrolers since 1968 when a group of youngsters toured Gettysburg, Pa.

Matthew Norton

The Michigan patrolers will leave May 17 and will stay overnight in Windsor, Ontario. The next morning the group will board a special train with Windsor patrolers and will arrive in Ottawa that afternoon with headquarters for the weekend at Ottawa University.

After breakfast May 19, the group will sightsee at the Canadian Parliament and that Friday will be guests of honor during a reception at the Governor General's residence.

Following the Saturday parade, patrolers will board the train for Windsor with arrival in Detroit that night. All participants will be returned to their homes by May 21.
